

Trustmark Voluntary Benefits

A rich history, a bright future

In 1913, a group of enterprising railroad workers decided that they needed a way to protect their coworkers when they were injured and couldn't work. They partnered with two insurance experts to found the Brotherhood of All Railway Employees, an insurance company operating out of a one-desk office in downtown Chicago.

More than 100 years later, Trustmark carries on the mission of our founders: going beyond, helping employees and showing genuine care for those we protect. This is Trustmark's story.
